Your Home...a TimberStead Timber Frame Home

What is most important to you about this home? Each of you please answer in one sentence.

The Place You Live:

Homes dwell on the land much as you dwell in your home. The design should complement the surroundings and should work with the local vernacular. Your home should take advantage of views, prevailing breezes, natural light, and the landscape. Some homes sit quietly on the site, drawing from the surroundings and feeling as if they've grown there. Others stand out, bringing a new look and feel to the neighborhood, to the area. The look that makes you feel the best is what we try to achieve, but we always encourage you to look to your land for answers.
